AURELIA · UPDATE

What's new in Aurelia

You told us what you liked and what didn't feel right. This update is built around what you said: fewer numbers, more reasons, and an app that adapts to you.

How to try it: open Aurelia, tap Design at the top of the screen and choose v2. On the test site it is listed as v5. The changes are marked in orange on the screens below.

1. Progress in words, not scores
2. No more made-up numbers
3. A "Why?" on every suggestion
4. Aurelia plans your next chapter
5. Your wearable, asked up front
6. An optional journal
7. Community without competition
8. A clearer home page

1

Progress in words, not scores

The Progress tab now tells you how you've been feeling, in plain words, from your own check-ins. No percentages.

1. A short summary of how you've felt so far, and the date of your next two-week report. Tap See what's behind this for each check-in.
2. Your journal (see 6).

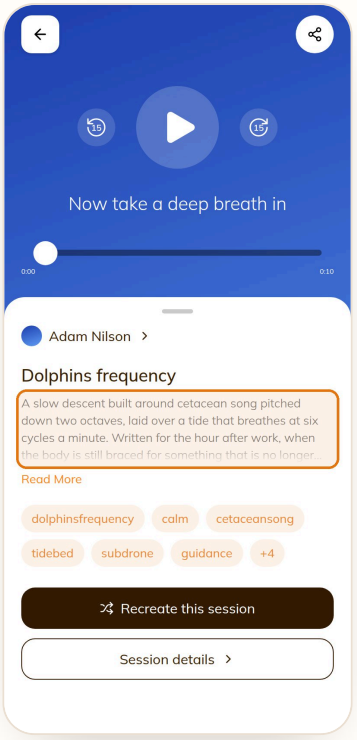

2

No more made-up numbers

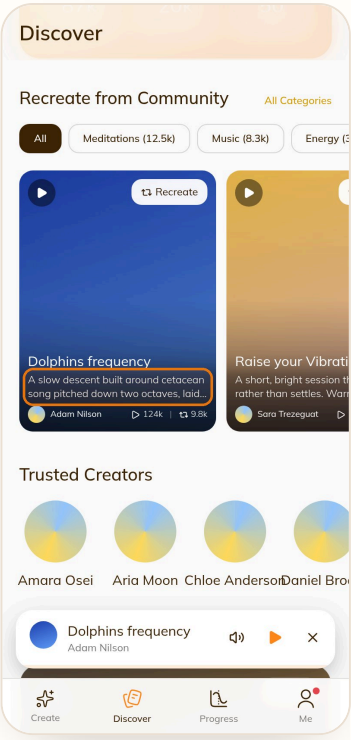

We removed figures that weren't yours.

A The player shows the session itself, with no progress charts.

B Session cards describe what the session is like, instead of claims such as "reduced stress by 43%". Tags no longer have a "#".

A · Player

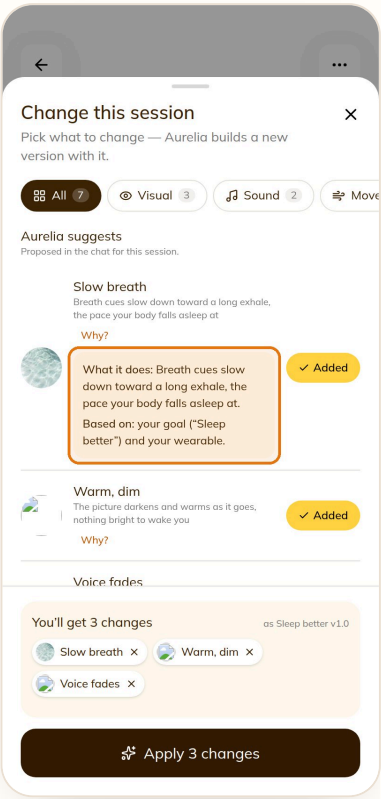

B · Session cards

3

A "Why?" on every suggestion

When Aurelia suggests a change to your session, tap Why? to see what it does and what it is based on: your goal, how you felt last time, and your wearable if you connected one.

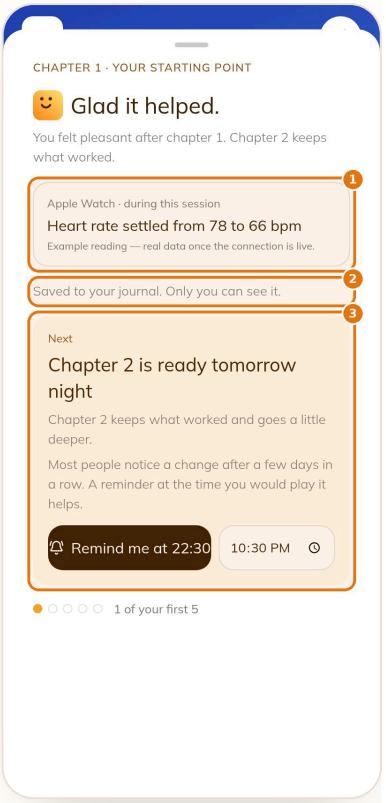

4

Aurelia plans your next chapter

After each session you tell Aurelia how you feel with one tap. It then tells you what it will change next time, so there is nothing for you to tune.

1. What your wearable noticed during the session.
2. An optional line for your journal.
3. What the next chapter keeps and changes, with a reminder at the time you choose.

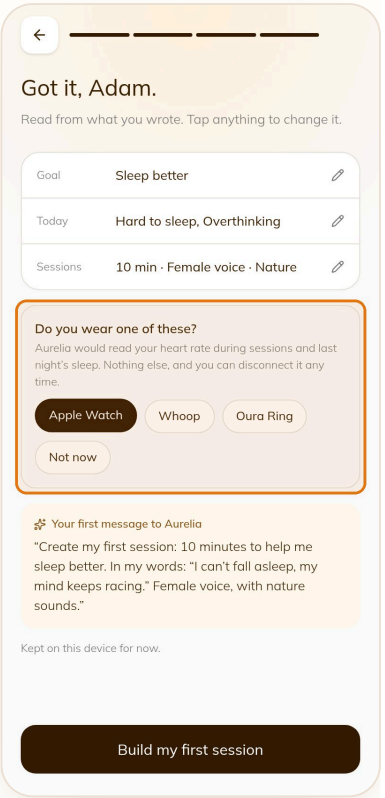

Wearable readings shown are examples until the connection goes live.

5

Your wearable, asked up front

During setup Aurelia asks if you wear an Apple Watch, Whoop or Oura Ring, and says exactly what it would read. Only the one you choose is switched on. "Not now" is always fine.

6

An optional journal

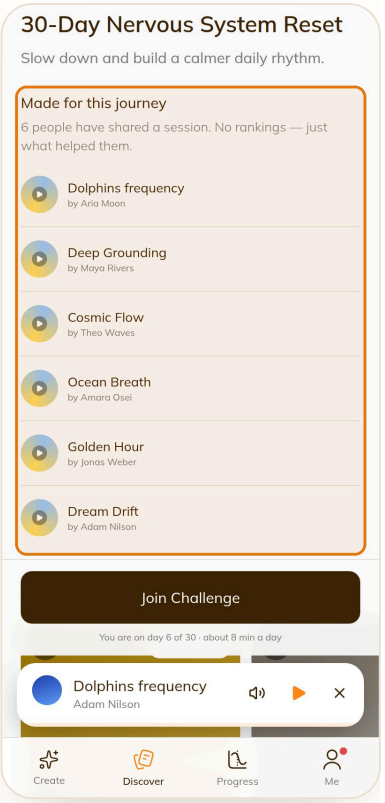

Write a short note after a session (see 4) or on any day from the Progress tab (see 1). Only you can see it, and Aurelia uses it to shape your next chapters.

7

Community without competition

A Challenges are a shared journey: who joined and what they made, with no podium or rankings.

B When you publish a session, Aurelia says plainly what others can see and what stays private: your check-ins, journal, wearable data and conversation.

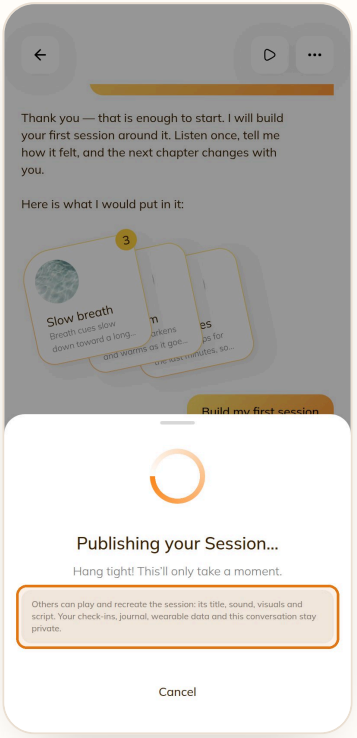

7A · Challenge

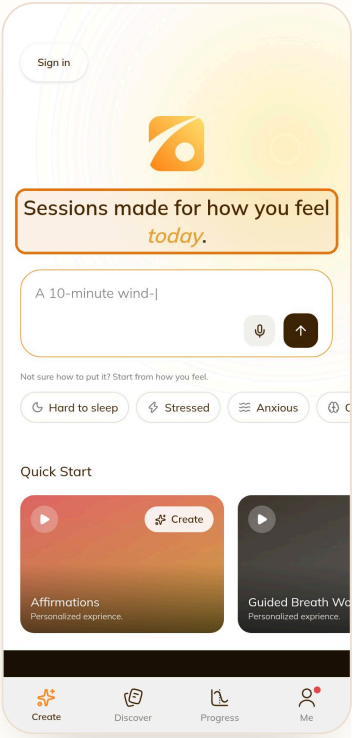

8

A clearer home page

The first screen now says what Aurelia is: "Sessions made for how you feel today." The world map, which looked like a co-working space, is gone.

7B · Publishing

8 · Home

Thank you for the feedback. Keep it coming: tell us what works for you and what doesn't.